

Air Force Installation & Mission Support Center

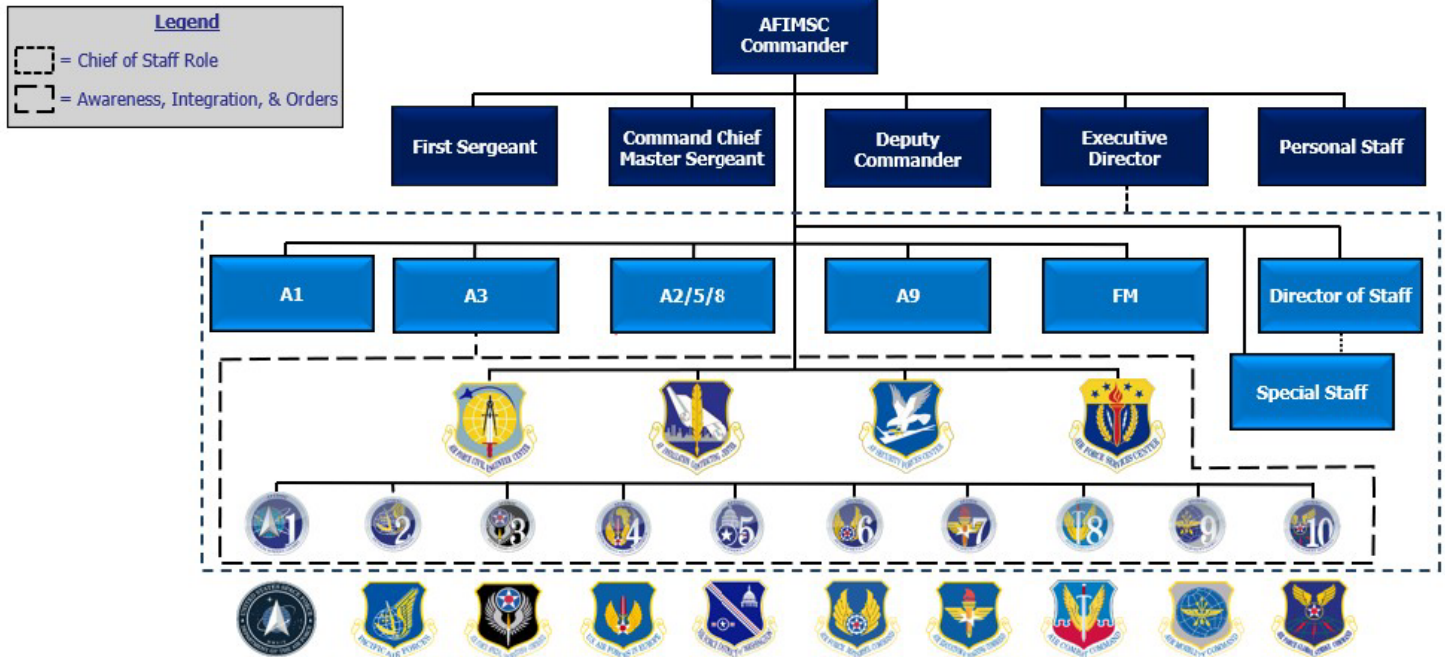

AFIMSC A-Staff Organizational Structure

Current as of 20 December 2023

AFIMSC's globally integrated team ensures the Air Force and Space Force have the capable power projection platforms they need to execute their missions. In order to be a more effective mission partner, the center is transitioning to an Air Force Forces staff structure, more commonly known as an A-Staff, at its headquarters.

A-Staff Organizational Chart

Mission Type Orders

Based on higher-level HQ priorities and intent, nested within the five-paragraph order format, to order a unit to perform a mission without specifying how it is to be accomplished.

Cross-Functional Teams providing Installation and Mission Support

Proven Construct Delivering Many Benefits

The A-staff construct is a proven organizational model that's been successfully implemented across the military. Adopting it at AFIMSC headquarters provides many benefits, including:

- Enables more effective support to customer's installation and mission support requirements around the world.
- Creates easy-to-understand pathways to our installation and mission support capabilities.
- Puts AFIMSC in the best position to focus on Department of the Air Force aligned installation and mission support strategy and planning efforts more efficiently and effectively.
- Improves how we integrate as a team, provide a strategic view of our execution capabilities, and deliver opportunities for our team to excel.
