

AFIMSC Capability Financial Management

The Air Force Installation and Mission Support Center enhances Air Force lethality and readiness by funding mission-critical requirements at the right time and at the right level as well as delivering clear financial operations policy and guidance to support timely, accurate pay and audit remediation.

AFIMSC's financial management capability delivers clear, unbiased analysis and decision support to commanders, and financial management customers, helping Air Force leaders clearly understand the financial impact of decision alternatives and make fully defensible resource decisions.

Driving the Mission

Financial analysis, resource planning and customer support and guidance provided by AFIMSC helps sustain installation and mission support operations.

Utilizing financial tools and funds status trackers, AFIMSC reduces the workload for planners and programmers. AFIMSC's $8 billion annual budget supports all Air Force and Space Force installations, eight Air Force major commands, and AFIMSC's four primary subordinate units and 10 detachments.

Financial Analysis

Installations and major commands receive expert specialized financial analysis, decision support and training through AFIMSC. These efforts vary and cover areas such as process improvement events, business case analyses, lease versus purchase analyses, and completing analyses required by policy for proposed projects.

Resource Planning and Customer Support

AFIMSC delivers globally integrated financial guidance and decision support for I&MS portfolios, installations and primary subordinate units. Financial management experts provide the tools and support commanders need to evaluate the holistic health of their base, to smartly prioritize funds and enable a risk-balanced portfolio and maximize strategic resourcing allocations enterprise-wide.
