

We're LinkedIn but are we?

We've launched the Air Force Installation and Mission Support Center LinkedIn page to connect with industry and YOU, our workforce, but we need your help.

LinkedIn, considered the world's largest professional network on the internet, is focused on business and career development BUT it's only successful when people contribute and engage.

From professional networking and job vacancies to partnering opportunities, you can find it on our new LinkedIn page. It's also a chance for you to see and share our organizational successes.

Access the platform using a computer or mobile devices like a tablet or cell phone.

Set up your free account today at www.linkedin.com/company/afimsc and share the site with friends, coworkers and business partners.

Get LinkedIn as we continue to grow as an organization in support of the Air Force enterprise!
